Horst Brandstätter (1933 – 2015)

Los niños lo llamaban “Señor Playmobil”, pero para sus empleados era simplemente “Hob”.

Horst Brandstätter, biznieta del fundador Andreas Brandstätter, fue el único propietario de la empresa durante tres décadas y una figura destacada en la industria del juguete en Alemania. En 1950, identificó el plástico como el futuro de la fabricación de juguetes y reorganizó la empresa familiar.

A inicios de los años 70, pidió a Hans Beck, jefe de diseño, que creara un nuevo sistema de juguetes: así nació PLAYMOBIL®. Gracias a PLAYMOBIL®, la compañía se convirtió en líder de ventas en Alemania. En 2000, lanzó con éxito la marca LECHUZA como un segundo pilar de la empresa.

Horst Brandstätter falleció el 3 de junio de 2015 a los 81 años. La compañía sigue operando como una fundación corporativa.
